

GOODBYE DR. RUTH, HELLO RAT DOG!

Daily Press (Newport News, VA) - March 18, 1994

- Edition: Final
- Section: InRoads
- Page: 2
- Readability: 7-9 grade level (Lexile: 1070)

So long, Dr. Ruth. It's been, well, ummm... exciting.

Speaking of excitement, be sure to pick up next week's inRoads for a few changes.

First of all, we're going to replace Dr. Ruth's column with one of the most interesting columns to come to inRoads.

"Ask Rat Dog," by Fay Faron, serves up loads of information presented in a fun and fascinating way.

Faron's a licensed private investigator in California who offers readers tips on locating people and information, checking out someone before doing business, collecting back rents or unpaid child support and much, much more! "I track down scoundrels like a rat dog finds rats," she says.

Faron owns the Rat Dog Dick Detective Agency in California and is also the author of "A Private Eye's Guide to Collecting a Bad Debt."

Also, we're doing away with our inPut question. We just don't receive enough responses to justify the amount of time we spend on it each week. But phone addicts, take heart, you always have the Daily Press "Sound Off" question and the world-famous Venom Line.

Look for these changes next week in inRoads.

- Caption: Logo (b&w) of Rat Dog Dick

- Index terms: InPut
- Record: 9403180180
- Copyright: Copyright 1994, 2000 Daily Press (Newport News, VA)